Exercice Olympian Bear 2016

RCAA

L'exercice Olympian Bear 2016 a remporté un franc succès au sein du 2 RCHA. Nous avons dominé sur le terrain, sur la glace, dans le ring et dans la piscine, ce qui nous a permis de remporter le trophée récompensant l'équipe ayant offert la meilleure performance globale. Cette distinction a été fièrement exposée durant le dîner militaire de la brigade qui a été organisé pour clôturer une semaine remplie de plaisir, mais aussi difficile et marquée par une vive compétition. LIRE PLUS

RCAS Gunners Head to Semi-Finals

Captain Nicholas Kaempffer

Skilled, disciplined, and confident — such were the traits of the Combat Training Centre Headquarters (CTC HQ) C league hockey team who faced off against The Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery School (RCAS) on March 20th, at the Soldier's Arena. Coached by Warrant Officer Alan Simpkins, CTC HQ entered the rink with the bravado of champions, blissfully unaware of a pending ambush that would lead to a decisive defeat, in a game that echoed of history. READ MORE

L'équipe des artilleurs de l'ERRAC passe en demi-finale

Capitaine Nicholas Kaempffer

Douée, disciplinée et confiante. Voilà les qualités qu'a affichées l'équipe de la ligue C du Quartier général du Centre d'instruction au combat (QG CIC) qui a affronté l'équipe de l'École du Régiment royal de l'artillerie canadienne (ERRAC) le 20 mars dernier au Soldier's Arena. Entraînée par l'adjudant Alan Simpkins, l'équipe du QG CIC s'est élancée sur la glace avec la bravade des champions. Elle était toutefois loin de se douter qu'une embuscade de ses adversaires mènerait à une défaite décisive au terme d'une partie épique. LIRE PLUS

A look inside Borden military base's stunning new mess hall

Toronto Star

Located just west of Barrie, the CFB Borden army base is easier to get into than you'd think. No watchtowers covered in barbed wire in sight, no checkpoints with soldiers clutching automatics, I was imagining something more out of Call of Duty than something resembling a university campus. Making the base more up to date, pedestrian-friendly and open is what the base is moving toward as part of a master plan to be rolled out over the next few years, replacing old buildings that date back to the Second World War and building new structures that are better suited not only to how soldiers train nowadays but also how they live.
